Between Us

The tea Grace Hook gave the past week was typical of her artistic hands, and her home life beyond Webster's adjective. Her decorations were all in green and white, and one her plate was the traditional orange blossom given the guests as favors.

Mary Cannon was very striking in a red taffeta off-the-shoulder dress with yards in the floor-length skirt. Mary Fulcher, the bride's young sister, and the bride both wore white, and one her plate was the traditional orange blossom given the guests as favors.

The many lovely gifts received by Mr. and Mrs. Hook were on display, and hostesses in the gift room were Mrs. C. E. Layton, Mrs. A. J. Olliff, and Miss Lucille Higginbotham. Mrs. Grady Smith, Mrs. Allen Mikell and Miss Annie Thompson were in charge of the refreshments.

Mrs. H. F. Hook chose a black crepe gown with a corsage of white carnations for the occasion, and Mrs. Leslie Johnson.

Following the formal program a rehearsal of choruses to be presented on the open program of the club, which will be given as one of the music appreciation hours of Georgia Teachers College in April, was directed by Mr. Neil.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. George Bean, Mrs. Herbert Kingery, Mrs. Roger Holland and Mrs. Paul Lewis.

PAPER FESTIVAL ELABORATE PLANS

Princesses From Thirty-Six Adjoining Counties Selected To Participate in Festivities

Savannah, March 26.—Paper will be king here April 16-19 as the third annual Paper Festival is held in this historic southern city.

While there will be serious talks and public exhibits dedicated to the southern woodpulp industry, most of the program will be in a lighter vein.

Colorful night parades, coronation ceremonies, water shows, dances indoors and out are included on the four-day program.

Savannah's 10,000 azalea bushes in its famous public gardens and parks are scheduled to be in full bloom.

Officers from the Savannah air base, nearby army posts at Fort Screven and Camp Stewart, and the U. S. marine base at Parris Island, S. C., will add a military touch to the festivities by participating in various events, including parades.

Princesses from thirty-six neighboring Georgia and South Carolina communities arrive Wednesday, April 16th, in time to watch the first of three parades and join in a mothers' ball that night.

Hunky negro carmen will race in lateau on the muddy Savannah river Thursday, April 17, and old stern-wheeler steamers will engage in a tug-of-war during the waterfront display.

Hundreds of kids from this coastal area meet the same day for the finals of puncheon races and a contest for the best home-made auto.

FARMERS LEARN SAVING METHODS

Bulloch County Farm Security Administration Families Make Progress

Bulloch County's Farm Security Administration families are making definite progress with the livestock home program. One hundred forty-two families had fenced gardens during 1940. The fenced gardens make it possible to grow a year-round supply of vegetables. The 1940 gardens were planted with a variety of eight to fifteen vegetables. An excess of seeds were planted in the gardens in order to can the extra vegetables for winter. A total of 63,798 quarts of vegetables and fruits were canned during 1940, which is an average of 269 quarts per family. This is an increase of 36,100 quarts over the 1938 total of 27,698. Miss Higginbotham, home management supervisor, attributed the gain in food preservation to the purchasing of more pressure cookers and jars by Farm Security Administration borrowers. There was also an increased garden and truck acreage.

A typical breakfast for the majority of these families would be canned tomato juice, pork sausage, grits, red gravy, blackberry jelly, hot biscuits, milk. For dinner these families might enjoy fresh turnips and greens cooked with streak-lean, streak-fat, sliced onions, baked hot sweet potatoes, corn muffin, butter, canned peaches with cream and butter milk.

Then for supper they could have canned vegetable soup, boiled eggs, toast, corn muffins, pear salad and milk. These foods and many others are produced on the farm.

Some of the home improvements during 1940 were making mattresses and quilts, remodeling and repainting furniture, screening and repairing some houses, curbing wells, minor repairs on houses, yards and lot fences. Many families have set out a variety of fruit trees for home orchards. Some yards have been made more attractive by transplanting shrubbery and flowers.

William W. Moore, county supervisor, stated that Bulloch county Farm Security borrowers have saved more planting seed and have more food crops this year than ever before.

The money they borrow is amortized over a period of five years, an average of a substantial repayment of more than was due has been paid.

Through Farm Security Administration there will be in 1940-41 at least twelve tenants loaned money to purchase farms through the tenant purchase program. Up to date there has been thirty-three of these farms purchased. These loans are amortized over a period of five years at three per cent interest.

J. W. OUTLAND

J. W. Outland, age 78, died Monday evening at the Bulloch County Hospital, his death coming after a brief illness with pneumonia. Interment was in the cemetery at Savannah, Screven county, Wednesday morning following services at the Statesboro Methodist church which were conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. N. Peacock, assisted by Rev. H. L. Snead. Active pallbearers were Gibson Johnston, George M. Johnston, Horace McDougald, Bernard McDougald, James W. Johnston and Robert P. Donaldson; honorary were R. F. Donaldson, J. J. Zetterower, J. L. Mathews, Edwin Groover, George T. Groover, D. B. Turner, Charles E. Cone, J. L. Renfro, C. P. Olliff, Hinton Booth, S. J. Crouch and C. B. Mathews.

A native of North Carolina, Mr. Outland came to Statesboro something more than a half century ago, and during all these years has been engaged in the naval stores business.

Son of the late B. T. Outland, he was first associated with the firm of Williams, Outland & Co., in which the two other members were the late J. P. Williams (whose first wife was J. W. Outland's sister) and the late J. A. McDougald. In more recent years the firm name has been McDougald, Outland & Co., and has been extensively engaged in farming.

Relatives surviving are four nephews, Greene S. Johnston, Tallahassee, Fla., and Jesse O. Johnston, Statesboro; B. T. Outland, Statesboro; and W. R. Outland, Lyons; five nieces, Mrs. Margaret J. Taggart, Mable, Pa.; Mrs. E. C. Oliver, Statesboro; Mrs. Nan Edith Jones, Statesboro; Mrs. Belle Crockett, Augusta, and Mrs. Margaret Shaw, in North Carolina.

GRIST MILL.—Have installed a grist mill at my farm near West Side school and will appreciate the public patronage; grinding days Friday and Saturday; take one-sixth as toll; will try my best to give satisfaction. W. W. NESMITH. (20Feb41p)

Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Newman entertained the boys' basketball team with a shad supper. Those present were James Geiger, Harold McElwain, Edgar Sherrod, Pete Smith, Frank Knight, Monroe Graham, Dempsey Ward, Ora Shuman, Arthur Boyd Deal, James Davis, Coach S. A. Driggers, E. A. Nesmith, J. C. Cato and Dr. D. L. Deal.

Miss Mamie Faulkner, of Hoscot, has accepted the vacancy as home economics instructor caused by the resignation of Mrs. A. J. Brown, who resigned to accept a position with the government. Mrs. Edgar Parrish, of Portal has acted as temporary instructor. Miss Faulkner comes highly recommended and assumed her duties Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Shuman and Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Geiger were hosts to the boys' and girls' basketball teams and a few friends Friday evening with a barbecue at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Shuman. Those invited were Misses Christine Upchurch, Helen Chassaras, Alva Dickerson, Alma Cato, Alva McElwain, Inell Smith, Mary Lee Bryant, Ellen Dickerson, Coach and Mrs. J. C. Cato, Frank Knight, Pete Smith, Harold McElwain, James Geiger, Edgar Sherrod, Ira Shuman, Dempsey Ward, Monroe Graham, James Davis, Arthur Boyd Deal, Coach S. A. Driggers, and Mrs. Stothard Deal.

the Paper Festival Thursday night. Children reign supreme on Friday, April 18, when a junior king and queen are crowned.

School children are to parade with forty-eight miniature floats, each depicting one state in the union. The children constructed the floats after writing each of the forty-eight states for background information on which to base the float designs.

Highlights of Saturday's program will be the grand equestrian parade that night with twenty-five lighted floats, each portraying a popular book of fiction, with characters in costumes and appropriate settings.

Savannah citizens held an election to select the twenty-five leading books, and "Gone With The Wind" took first honors.

Outboard motorboats and sailboats will compete Saturday afternoon.

Street dances are planned each evening, as well as royal and military balls.

A carnival city will operate during the program, under auspices of the Festival.

It was in Savannah that the late Dr. Charles Holmes Herby conducted his experiments in the field of fast growing southern woods. His work is being continued by the Herby Foundation.

PARENT-TEACHERS TO HAVE MONTHLY MEETING

The monthly meeting of the Statesboro Parent-Teacher Association will be held at 2:30 this afternoon in the High School auditorium.

The nominating committee will submit its recommendations for officers for the ensuing year. Mrs. Grady Johnston urges all members to attend.

A STATEMENT TO THE PUBLIC

To My Friends and Patrons:

It is a great satisfaction to me to make the above statement. The Rosenberg Hardware Co., (formerly Johnson Hardware Co.) will operate without interruption and along the same lines and policies that it was formerly operated by Mr. Walter Johnson.

The same men will be here to serve you, Brooks Mikell and Bruce Groover.

The Johnson Hardware Company has been a part of Statesboro and Bulloch county for the past eleven years and is one of the best stocked hardware stores in this section of Georgia.

As sole owner of the business I will operate this business to the best of my ability to deserve your continued trade and confidence.

This business will not be sold as some people might have heard. I will personally operate this business.

Sincerely,

SAM ROSENBERG, Owner.

BULLOCH TIMES

AND
THE STATESBORO NEWS
D. B. TURNER, Editor and Owner

Entered as second-class matter March 26, 1906, at the postoffice at Statesboro, Ga., under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Wanted Advertisement Stopped
A LADY FRIEND came to the Times office Wednesday afternoon of last week with a very small dog in her arms. It was a frisky looking little fellow with pop eyes and pudgy nose. (She called it some kind of a bulldog, and it had the face and color of one.) She told us she merely brought it along as proof that there was such a dog, and she wanted the Times to sell it for her.

Now, the Times only guarantees to try and that was as much as we felt justified in promising her. That satisfied her.

It was a four-line advertisement which went into the classified column last week, and the paper went into the postoffice about 2 o'clock. One hour later the phone rang while we were still running off papers for the balance of the week. The voice at the phone said, "Stop that advertisement; I have sold my dog." And then she went on to explain that somebody had read the advertisement, had called her about the dog and had come for it within an hour after the paper had gone into the local postoffice.

Not all advertisements bear such quick results, to be sure; but if you look at the classified column of this paper you will be impressed that more than the usual number of advertisements bear testimony to the value placed upon advertising by the general public. Yet, with all this proof there are still some of our business men—even successful business men—who ignore the opportunity to bid for patronage of Times readers on the ground that "everybody knows what I have for sale."

But we wonder if "everybody" does actually know. Some years ago a stranger came to Statesboro to make his home. Among the first things he did was to subscribe for the Times. We believe he read it, for sometimes he mentioned things he had seen in its columns. One day this new-comer invited us to ride with him to Savannah on a special matter of business. As we were about to leave, the stranger returned home to tell us he had business at a certain shoe store—it was one which then as now occasionally carries announcements in this paper advertising a special brand of shoe. He told us that was the only shoe which fitted his foot. We asked him if he couldn't get the shoe in Statesboro, and he replied that he had not seen it advertised here. We were not sure, but believed certain friends of ours (non-advertising friends, whom we personally appreciate) carried that line, and told him as much.

The man bought the shoe in Savannah. At home we looked in the shop window and noticed the identical shoe on display. It was probably a dollar or two cheaper in Statesboro; but the local merchant had failed to inform the new-comer that he carried that line. He lost the sale by reason of that failure.

The lady who had the bulldog for sale knew how to sell it. The man who has shoes to sell might learn a lesson from her.

Clocks Speak Same Language

THE RECENT time-fixing act of the legislature was a matter of great importance than seemed casually apparent, and we are happy that it has been brought about and promises to adapt itself to our affairs with so little confusion.

The story a clock tells on its face does not necessarily mean so much after people have learned to fit themselves to its language. To be sure we become prejudiced for or against things according to our acceptance of it as desirable or not. The time was something like a half century ago that rural Georgians ignored all time except that which was supposed to be established by the rising and setting of the sun. Eastern and central standards were considered merely an attempt to interfere with the laws of nature, and we who pride ourselves upon being more or less close to nature resented any attempt to ignore the sun.

Central standard was thirty-six minutes behind the sun, and we protested against the loss of so much time every day; eastern standard was twenty-four minutes ahead of the sun, and nobody wanted to be pushed ahead by even that much. So when the Statesboro court house was erected in 1893 and the people of the county raised by voluntary subscription enough money to install the clock in the court house tower, Judge Martin (God bless his soul, there was never a nobler man lived!) directed that sun time should prevail as a concession to those who believed in the sun.

It will be recalled, perhaps, that after many years Statesboro was left on central standard time for her operations, but we had hardly fitted ourselves into that schedule until we were switched to eastern standard. We liked that a little better for our mid-day lunch, and it was equally satisfactory for other purposes. For awhile, and then there came along daylight saving time. That last change put us entirely out of gear—two hours ahead of former central standard time! Railroad trains which had heretofore run through Statesboro about mid-forenoon began coming in at noon, before breakfast, if you followed the clock, you went to bed ahead of the chickens, and likewise got off the roost the next morning ahead of them. Honestly, we always believed two hours' advance in time in such short time was very much overdoing the thing; and we were glad when the voice at the phone said, "Stop that advertisement; I have sold my dog." And then she went on to explain that somebody had read the advertisement, had called her about the dog and had come for it within an hour after the paper had gone into the local postoffice.

But the dual time in Georgia has been a different matter; when you spoke of any specific hour, it was always necessary to specify which time was meant. In family circles, there ought to be only one clock, lest somebody get to dinner too early or too late. Georgia is merely a family circle. One clock is sufficient, so that when it strikes dinner-time in east Georgia it means dinner-time in west Georgia—unless west Georgia people prefer to eat late. That is up to them personally; we are happy that the clock has been set to a standard time for the entire state, and twelve o'clock means the same time everywhere in Georgia.

When CAMP was Young Man WITHIN VERY recent weeks a writer was a visitor in the part of Georgia which we have learned to know as Ernest Camp's town. Ernest possibly does not lay claim to any very large percentage of ownership, but he has been here for a long time and has earned the right to feel a sense of responsibility, if not proprietorship. He was acting that evening exactly as a young man ought to act (and we agreed with him that she was a real pretty school teacher); but somehow we attained to the conclusion that he wasn't as young as he used to be. We didn't ask him how long he had claimed Monroe for his town, but since coming home (it was while checking over our thirty-years-old department for a recent issue), we ran upon a story which seemed to throw some light on this. The light comes from an article published in the Bulloch Times of Wednesday, March 22, 1911; it was written by him, and was entitled "A Parable on Boys." Would you care to read what Ernest Camp thought he already knew about boys at that time? Well, here it is:

"Verily this is the day and generation the father hath raised up his son on the streets and sidewalks. He lay around the soda font and imbibeth slop and hookworm. He groweth in knowledge in nothing save in cigarettes and cuss words.

"When he attaineth the age of 16 he acquirith a suit of clothes turned up at the bottom two fur-longs above his feet. He displayeth a pie of nature with purple background and violets in the front. He weareth low-cut shoes and a green tie. He looketh like a handsome merchant on the streets of Cairo.

"The inside of his head resembleth the inside of a pumpkin.

"He falleth in love with a spindle-chanked girl with pink ribbons and a blue bow in her hair. He scattereth a rail fence. He sitteth up at night to write poetry, and better see your doctor! Thursday, April 3, 7:30 p. m. A small admission will be charged.

CARD OF THANKS

The children of the late Math Donalson takes this method to express sincere thanks to the many friends of him and them for kindness shown him during his long illness and to us in our great sorrow at his passing away. Especially would we mention the loyalty and faithful devotion of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Edfield, who contributed so largely to the peace and comfort of his closing days. We shall never forget the many acts of kindness and words of sympathy. HIS CHILDREN.

perume and smelleth louder than a billy goat.

"When he groweth up he getteth a job as a clerk at $1 per day, and he swipect extra change from his boss till he is caught."

Now, that was a long time ago when Ernest Camp visualized this picture of a young man. He was himself quite a youth thirty years ago, and he wouldn't like to be classed as dead old today. But Ernest is different in at least one respect from the youth he pictured—he is not averse to work. He gets out a modern newspaper, and is the entire front-office staff. But, with all that, he finds time to direct many of the most important activities of Monroe. The evening we were his guest he was program director of the Rotary Ladies' Night, than which we have never attended a more delightful occasion.

James Bragg sailed from Honolulu for Visit At Home After Three Years' Absence

James L. Bragg sailed from Honolulu March 4th aboard the U. S. A. T. "Republic," and probably will arrive at his home in Stilton about April 1.

Mr. Bragg is the son of Mrs. B. T. Reynolds, of Stilton. He enlisted in the army on May 24, 1918, and on his arrival in Oahu was assigned to the 35th Infantry, Schofield barracks, T. H., a fortunate assignment for him, as the 35th Infantry has long had a reputation of being one of the outstanding regiments of the Hawaiian division.

Now that he has completed his tour of service in the islands Mr. Bragg is ready to return to civilian life with a great deal of useful experience. His specialized and extensive training in infantry weapons, tactics and organization will guarantee him a welcome in any infantry regiment, if he decides to remain in the army. His knowledge of handling men, and his honorable discharge with excellent character should provide him with a splendid recommendation to any civilian employer.

Prior to sailing from Hawaii Mr. Bragg was among those for whom the 35th Infantry held a colorful and inspiring Aloha parade at which time the commanding officer, William J. Morrissey, bid them farewell and extended to them the best wishes of the regiment in their future career.

Mr. Bragg made quite a name for himself during his stay with the regiment. He played both regular and irregular basketball. He also received a warrant for reaching the grade of corporal.

SEVEN TRAINEES BE FORWARDED TUESDAY

The local selective service board announces that seven trainees have been forwarded Tuesday for Fort McPherson under orders received during the present week. Those who will comprise this quota are Robert Lovett Edwards (volunteer), John Redden Martin, Bertie Cleveland NeSmith, Richard Grady Thompson, James Floyd Miller and Thomas Arden DeLoach. These seven men will report at Statesboro Tuesday morning, April 1, at 7:45. Alternates notified to report are Albert Lee Salter and Edgar Harris Wynn.

A distinguished visitor at the local office during the week with Lt. Col. P. S. Moses, state director of occupational deferment, who was here Tuesday enroute to Savannah. He expressed entire satisfaction with the work of the local board.

FOUR-POUND TURNIPS FOR EDITOR'S TABLE
Two mammoth purple top turnips, each weighing four pounds, were the contribution from Sam Smith to the editor's Tuesday dinner, and were found lying at the front door at sunrise that morning. With them also was a bunch of smaller-sized turnips, beauties within themselves, which were merely samples of his regular daily sale on the local market. Sam Smith knows how to grow lovely vegetables.

PORTAL SCHOOL FACULTY NAMED FOR NEXT TERM
Announcement is made that the Portal High School faculty has been partially organized for the coming term, with Rupert Parrish re-elected superintendent and Fleming McDaniel elected principal. Other members of the faculty are to be selected at a later meeting. Mr. Parrish has been connected with the school for eleven years as teacher, principal and superintendent. Mr. McDaniel was a member of the faculty during the past term.
Trustees for the ensuing term are: S. W. Brack, chairman; Roy Aaron, secretary; Claude Cowart, H. L. Allen and M. V. Woodcock.

THAD MORRIS NAMED PRESIDENT OF ROTARY
At the meeting Tuesday Thad Morris was elected president of Statesboro Rotary club for the ensuing term. One of the original members of the organization, he has been actively identified with every progressive movement of the club, and his election as president comes to him as a deserved recognition of his zeal and loyalty. He will assume his new duties next week.
Morris was elected master-at-arms to succeed Alfred Dorman, who has held that office for the past year. B. L. Smith was elected treasurer for the ensuing term.

INTERESTING VISITOR AT ROTARY LUNCHEON
An interesting visitor at Rotary luncheon Monday was Dr. Ernie Burnham, of Kalamazoo, Mich., who was a guest during the week of Dr. M. S. Pittman of Teachers College. Given a cordial welcome at the luncheon, Dr. Burnham made a most interesting talk for several minutes.
Dr. Burnham is recognized, according to the introduction given him by Dr. Pittman, as the dean of rural educators in America. He has returned from active educational work following his retirement between these two quarters dates back for more than a quarter of a century.

Newsy Notes From Nevils

Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Stapleton were visitors in Augusta on Friday of last week.

Miss Mary Simmons has returned from a visit with relatives in Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Waters, of Savannah, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Anderson.

Several of our men went to Augusta Monday to begin work for the government on projects there.

The heavy rains which we have been having have played havoc with our roads which are nearly all practically impassable.

Misses Estelle Brooks and Etna Rae Waldrop, of Columbus, Ga., have been spending a few days with Miss Lou Nell Smith.

Mrs. G. C. Avery and daughter, Georgia Belle, and Mr. and Mrs. Burnham Nesmith were Savannah shoppers Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Lyle and children, Joyce, James and Jauden, have returned to their home in Clayton, Ga., after a few days' visit with relatives here.

Mrs. Dewey Martin spent Wednesday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Hendricks, at Willie, Ga. She was accompanied by her aunt, Mrs. J. T. Martin.

One of the most enjoyable events of the week end was the surprise party given Miss Sarah Hodges at which time she was the recipient of many lovely and useful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman May have returned to their home in Atlanta after several days' visit with Mrs. Billy Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Goodie and other relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Buie Neamith were called Sunday morning to go to the South Georgia Asylum for the Deaf, at Collegeboro for their daughter, Lualine, who attends school there, and was quite sick with an attack of appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Donaldson, of Newberry, S. C., and Mrs. Pierce Parrish and little son, John, of Augusta, were called here this week on account of the serious illness of their father, J. W. Donaldson, who has been in the Bulloch County Hospital.

Rev. Robert Woodall spent several days the past week with Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Avery and other friends here. He is a student at Emory University, Atlanta, and also a student preacher at Scott, Ga. He was the first minister sent here to help build the present Methodist church.

Miss Katie Maude DeLoach and brother, Howard DeLoach, of Columbia, S. C., visited Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Martin and family on Sunday; also Mr. and Mrs. Martin had as their guests the same day Mr. and Mrs. Wylie Rimes and daughter, Martha Rose, of Savannah.

James Whittaker, who has been bed-ridden for more than two years, is now suffering from a severe carbuncle on his eye brow in nearly the same place where a very severe attack of blood poisoning started a few

NEWS OF THE WEEK OVER THE NATION

Happenings That Affect Dinner Palate, Dividend Checks And Tax Bills of People

Weeks ago opponents of the lend-lease bill admitted that their cause was lost. From the beginning, it was a certainty that the bill would go through. And so, when an irritable, debate-weary senate finally voted on the bill on the evening of March 8, it came almost as an anticlimax. There was no filibuster. There was no excitement. Congress simply gave its formal approval to a fateful, far-reaching policy which had been established and decided in all basic essentials long ago.

The bill passed with comparatively little change. It gives the President powers which can be compared only to those conferred upon Wilson during the World War. He is, in short, empowered to sell, transfer title to, lease, lend or otherwise dispose of any and all war materials to any power whose defense he considers vital to the defense of the United States. The senate added three more or less important amendments, all of them approved by the White House. One ends the authority of the President to enter into contracts on June 30, 1943, and stipulates that all contracts must be fulfilled by July 1, 1946. Another limits orders for war materials to amounts which will later be authorized by congress, and adds a stipulation that not more than $1,300,000,000 worth of war supplies now possessed by our army and navy can be transferred. The third requires the President to report to congress on the progress of the program each 90 days.

Two much-publicized proposed amendments were beaten. One would have forbidden the President to allow the U. S. navy to convey supply ships abroad. As the White House spokesmen pointed out, this meant little or nothing, inasmuch as the constitution gives the President, as Commander-in-Chief of all military forces, almost unlimited authority over naval actions and policy, and it would take a constitutional amendment to change that. The other amendment would have forbidden sending A.E.F. to foreign lands without explicit congressional approval. Administration leaders said this would weaken our foreign policy, particularly in the Far East, by assuring the possible enemies of the United States that we were unable to back up our talk with action. Congress concurred.

The vote did not divide strictly on party lines. The Democrats held their forces well in line—49 voted for the bill, and 13 against. The Republicans split. Seventeen senators, including the party's senate leader, McNary, of Oregon.

It has been widely reported that Mr. Roosevelt was just waiting for Congress to finish its wrangling before taking drastic steps to iron out arms production difficulties. It is one thing to pass a law providing all aid to Britain—it is a very different thing to produce and ship the arms the belligerents so desperately need. The defense high command has already been shaken up, but there is still considerable division of responsibility. No one can take the supreme command, as was Bernard Baruch in the 1917 war industries board. The feeling persists that the President will be forced to do this before long. And reports are also going around that some of the men high in defense circles are not proven to be such production wizards as their build-ups predicted. In the meantime, it is next to impossible to find out exactly how well, or badly the defense drive is going. Some say it is in fearfully bad shape; others say that it is progressing as well as can be expected. What may prove to have been an important development was lately made by ex-Ambassador Bullitt in a speech before the Overseas Press Club. Mr. Bullitt said that "we could double our planned output of airplanes and business is to help local employment offices fill defense jobs quickly and efficiently."

The man in charge of these federal offices receives regular reports, from which he knows the extent of the nation's labor supply as well as the requirements of defense industries. Existence of this new machinery, Commissioner Huet said, serves as a better method of preventing the waste and delay of planless migration and assures those who have traveled to them that there is a job waiting for them that they can fill. Through the system, he added, production can be speeded up; employers will have an additional aid in getting workers when they need them and workers with skilled need a better opportunity to work where they are most needed.

There's no use, for a little spicy, all-vegetable BLACK-DRAGHT, taken by simple directions, will gently persuade your bowels.

Taken at bedtime, it generally allows time for a good night's rest. Morning usually brings prompt, satisfying relief from constipation and its symptoms such as headache, biliousness, sour stomach, no appetite or energy.

BLACK-DRAGHT'S main ingredient is an "intestinal tonic-laxative" which helps tone intestinal muscles. 25 to 40 doses, only 25c.

Champ Leaps Car at Sports Carnival

With the greatest of ease, Alfred Orlan, former national ski champion, starts the queen's "court" at the great Winter Sports State Park at Grayling, Michigan, by leaping over a Chevrolet Sedan. Miss Yvonne Bradley (third from the right) has elected Snow Queen and, with her court, welcomes the colorful crowds of winter sports fans who arrive by the thousands in automobiles and snow trains. Six steel toboggan slides and acres of skating rinks are now in operation, and three ski towers and 73 miles of marked ski trails are planned for this huge winter sports development under the supervision of the National Park Service and the Michigan State Park Department.

..r.., holsum moore's son, hansom, wants to be a f.b.i. he is very smart. he can locate fifth columns as fast as a bird dog locates a coon when bird hunting is fine. he has 25 fifth columns under his eye at this writing. he thinks they are making humbly to blow up flat rock's sanni-very beef market. they have bought very many suspicious things here of late.

..r.. moore ketching a crowd of fur-ain-looking men trying to sabber-targe our railroad. they had a fire under the tracks near wilson's mill pond. it looked like they were going to burn it down, but hansom flushed them with a stick that looked like a shot-gun. they have not been ketched as yet.

hansom moore went to be eligible to the draft. he is too tall, and he is too thin. he is too stooped over when he walks he looks like he has lost something and is looking for it on the ground. he also has one week lung on his left side from pluri-ty. but his eye-sight and trigger-finger is o.k.

if you can use hansom right away in the f.b.i. please rise or foam the undergarment. he lives at our house. we can't get no work out of him; he is always busy trying to spy on somebody. he will go a long way towards winning the present war. he says it would make him happy to arrest him. kindly help me make him happy.

FLAT ROCK EXPANDS

..r.. slim chance jay and his wife have moved into their little home on main street. he borrowed the money to pay for the lot with his uncle and gave him a plain note of hand for same. he has agreed to let the note and not discount it. it won't be much trouble to hold, mrs. art square says.

..r.. chance borrowed the money to build the house with from the government at a low rate, so he says. they have the first mortgage on everything. they bought their house and hole stuff on the installment plan and paid a dollar down on it. nobody knows where they got the dollar. his addie was had for only 50c down. they happened to have 50c left over from a wedding present they sold.

..r.. slim chance already had a second-hand Ford. he made the down payment on a check and later he taken ago with a check up. he is a little behind with his payments, but he will ketch them up as soon as his wife gets back into the sewing room. he is yet know, the local boss says she is indeferent. that is, her job.

this nice home of the chances is composed of 5 rooms with a back piazza and a sitting room and a kitchen with a breakfast room in the same. it has a new stove, but they are not using it now as they have not bought a new one. they will have water works the stove they cat at has not been put in his house when the w.p.a. gets down water works in flat rock. they are both very happy and she
